

Ethan Stern-Ellis
Humanities ½
25 Sept. 2013

Living Room

My living room holds several emotions
From the emptiness of a sister gone away
To the happiness of a festival of lights
From the peacefulness of live music
To the silliness of a playful dog

My living room is a place of sanctuary
A place to unwind from a strenuous day
A place to forget about the troubles of life
A place to create memories that will stay forever
A place to let your emotions out

My living room is like a close family friend
It's always around us
It will listen to us without complaint
It will give us a place to sleep if we don't have a bed
It will let us live